Dear Murphy Institute Students,

The final weeks of the fall semester are upon us! This is the time of the semester when the pace picks up and you start putting together your final papers or projects.

In the last bi-weekly tip, I offered revision questions to help you revise your papers – to make those big, necessary changes. This week, the tip will offer you resources to help review the format of your work:

Formatting & Citation Resources

Formatting is how your paper needs to be organized, including how your citations should look.

How to format your papers is a big topic that cannot be covered in a single, brief tip. However, what this tip will do is provide you with resources that may answer most of your formatting questions. But first:

1. What’s Your Style?
   Most academic papers are written according to formatting standards determined by the field you are in. The three most common styles are:
   - MLA (Modern Language Association) Style – 8th Edition
   - APA (American Psychological Association) Style – 6th / 7th Edition
   Find out which style you are using by checking the assignment guidelines or asking your professor. Make sure you use the appropriate edition too!

2. Access Format & Citation Resources
   These resources include physical Citation Style Manuals or online guides.
   We strongly recommend you review the Style guides on Purdue OWL (Online Writing Lab).
   Click hyperlinks to access the:
   - MLA style guide
   - APA Style Guide
   - Chicago Manual of Style

   Also, review the Sample Student Papers Purdue OWL provides, which explains how to format yours:
   - MLA Sample Paper
   - APA 6th Edition Sample Paper
   - APA 7th Edition Sample Paper (Student)
   - CMOS Sample Paper

   If you have questions or want to put this into practice, feel free to contact me! 😊
